As the name suggests, Ark Ragnarok is all about fighting and survival. Here is another bonus features here are designed for PVP. Yes, you can do PVE here as well, but whats the fun in that on a map that is purely PvP-focused? Lets take a look at some of the best base locations you can build on in Ark Ragnarok. Ark Ragnarok has plenty of amazing base locations, allowing you to build under the caves or to the top of the mountains. The areas are designed to be creative about your PVP strategies and dominate your enemies. Weve put together the 10 best base locations on the Ark Ragnarok map, and well also explain why each location made it to this list. The general area of Viking Bay is quite impressive to build a base. You can also see some plateaus here that serve as a great surface to build your base. But here, more specifically, we will talk about the waterfall base, and you can look around to spot it. Pass through the waterfall, and you will come across an area spacious enough that you can keep your dinos safely. The way this place is built seems safe enough, and it can get pretty hard for enemies to invade as they will have to pass through the water. The other factor that makes it a great base location is that you can get your hands on good amount of resources which will make it convenient for you to breed your dinosaurs. This location is perfect as it has a variety of resources and offers protection from adversaries. Moving on to the next location, which is Ragnarok Castle and which is constructed on the high cliffs in a swamp area. This location gives you a perfect base spot and a mesmerizing view. The area around the castle is kinda swampy, but it is rich in resources such as you can see metal in that area which will significantly assist you in building the base. It is also a safe place as anyone who will try to raid will not be able to climb those, so they will probably have to look for another way to reach you. Speaking of the castle, there is also a bridge attached to it which is not in good condition, but you can rebuild it again to use it in your favor. You can set traps on the bridge so invaders may get into it while trying to raid you. Inside the castle, there can be different creatures, so the main task will be clearing out this place which can be difficult, but once you are done, it can be turned into the best PVP base location. As you go in the way of the stream, you will see a waterfall, and right behind it will be a cave which is a very safe place. Although it is not a good place to build your dinos and take care of them, you can use it as a temporary shelter. It provides good space to keep your dinos and take care of them. Besides this, it is fully secure place as there is only one entrance, so you don't have to be stressed about getting a raid from another tribe. It provides good space to keep your dinos safe and take care of them. Well, you can use the top of the cave as an appropriate place for water dinosaurs, and they will face no threat here. Considering the resources, you can get metal quickly from around, but for the wood, you will have to cover distances as it will not be available around you. As you go further on the coast there, you will get to witness heavy metal deposits, and there will be a huge plateau that fits right to be the best base location. By having an effective setting around, you can block the way of giant Dinosaurs so they may not be able to climb and raid your base. This is a safe place, and you can find it reliable to build your base. This place is nice and secure, and while wandering around, one may witness massive plateaus in the area. But have you thought these plateaus could be one of the best base locations? If not, then right now, you can learn how they can be used as an excellent base location. They are situated near the beach, and you can stay safely on them with your dinos. As they are high, the enemy will find it troubling to reach you. It can be an excellent place for the new players to start building their base in the early stages. Also, there is a lot of water and other resources for you creatures to grow and breed effectively. This area is around the green obelisk but at a distance from it. Also, there is a desert on one side and a snowy mountain on the other. This place is quite secure, the place becomes more visible, and by entering, it turns out to be stunning. Vines are hanging all over the place, and it has many sculptures. So far, it is the best base location for PVE or PVP to have your tameable creatures in the ground floor. Here is another place that is a very good place to build your base. This place is located near the Tek Teleporter, and it is located on the top of the mountains. The place is very secure, and it is quite difficult to reach the surface with the dinosaurs, and as a result, it is a very safe place. Well, you can use the top of the cave as a base, but it has a very small area, so its up to you if you want to utilize it or not. In the case of resources, you will not get the wood easily, which is the downside of this location. This is the best base location for PVE or PVP. This one is in the desert area. Near the river, there is an abandoned building which can be the best base location for this. It looks more like a ruin but is worth trying out. It is not too big but has ample space for tameable creatures to stay in, and also it is an open building, so you should construct your base accordingly. You also have a water source nearby, which adds to the value of the spot. Like pearls and other resources such as oils and metals, by working on it, you can make it a super amazing place for doing activities. This base location is good for both PVE & PVP. It is on the volcanic coast, and the entrance is at the bottom. You can identify the area through the black lava rocks covering the large surface in that area. The cave is flanked by lava falls. But there are rocky areas where you can build the base, and if you really like such surroundings, then you will like this spot. Also, there are many crystals you can collect from here. This base location is nearby the blue obelisk, so keeping this in your mind can be helpful while finding this area. It is an open cave area with water flowing below it, And it is quite large and spacious for you to keep your dinos and other stuff. This cave has multiple entrances, and the amazing part is that one entrance leads you to the forest, from where you can accumulate the required resources. You will have to be cautious due to these entrances as invaders can get in there, but still, the trees outside the cave make it hard for outsiders to spot it. Once again, you will get an ample amount of metal here, or you can look in the area around to get the other resources. This cave is big enough to keep the giant dinos. So worrying about space will not be your concern. This is, so far, the best base location for both PVE and PVP. Ragnarok, being a PVP center, is quite a dangerous place. You must be aware of your surroundings and protect your dinos and take care of them. Also, the area is very resourceful, yet the threat is also high, so play safely. The areas are very resourceful, yet the threat is also high, so play safe. The areas are very resourceful, yet the threat is also high, so play safe.
