'happy' You can also say that you are happy about something when you are pleased about it. She was happy that his sister was coming. If someone is contented and enjoys life, you say that they are happy. She always seemed such a happy woman. Be Careful! Don't use 'glad' with this meaning, and don't use 'glad' in front of a noun. Don't say, for example, 'She always seemed such a glad woman'. 3. 'cheerful' If someone shows that they are happy by smiling and laughing a lot, you say that they are cheerful. The men stayed cheerful and determined even when things got difficult. sad There are a number of adjectives which are used to indicate how happy or sad someone is. The adjectives in the following list are arranged from 'most happy' to 'least happy': ecstatic, elated, euphoric His wife gave birth to their first child, and he was ecstatic about it. 'That was one of the best races of my life,' said an elated Hakkinen. It had received euphoric support from the public, joyful, radiant, jubilant A wedding is a joyful celebration of love. On her wedding day the bride looked truly radiant. Hogg was jubilant after winning the men's doubles for the 10th time. happy, cheerful, jolly Marina was a confident, happy child. They are both very cheerful in spite of their colds. She was a jolly, kindhearted woman. light-hearted They were light-hearted and prepared to enjoy life. contented, fulfilled She was gazing at him with a soft, contented smile on her face. I feel more fulfilled doing this than I've ever done. dissatisfied, moody, discontented 82% of voters are dissatisfied with the way their country is being governed. David's mother was unstable and moody. The government tried to appease discontented workers. sad, unhappy, depressed, gloomy, glum, dejected, despondent, dispirited I'd grown fond of our little house and felt sad to leave it. Her marriage is in trouble and she is desperately unhappy. She's been very depressed and upset about this whole situation. Do you tend to be over-serious or gloomy? She was very glum and was obviously missing her children. Everyone has days when they feel dejected or down. I feel despondent when my work is rejected. I left eventually at six o'clock feeling utterly dispirited and depressed. miserable, wretched I took a series of badly paid secretarial jobs which made me really miserable. I feel really confused and wretched. happy 1. 'lucky' You say that someone is lucky when something nice happens to them, or when they always seem to have good luck. You're a lucky girl to have so many friends. The lucky winners were given 5000 each. 2. 'happy' Don't use 'lucky' to say that someone has feelings of pleasure and contentment. The word you use is happy. Sarah's such a happy person she's always laughing. Barbara felt tremendously happy when she heard the news. 'happy' You can also say that you are happy about something when you are pleased about it. She was happy that his sister was coming. If someone is contented and enjoys life, you say that they are happy. She always seemed such a happy woman. Be Careful! Don't use 'glad' with this meaning, and don't use 'glad' in front of a noun. Don't say, for example, 'She always seemed such a glad woman'. 3. 'cheerful' If someone shows that they are happy by smiling and laughing a lot, you say that they are cheerful. The men stayed cheerful and determined even when things got difficult. sad There are a number of adjectives which are used to indicate how happy or sad someone is. The adjectives in the following list are arranged from 'most happy' to 'least happy': ecstatic, elated, euphoric His wife gave birth to their first child, and he was ecstatic about it. 'That was one of the best races of my life,' said an elated Hakkinen. It had received euphoric support from the public, joyful, radiant, jubilant A wedding is a joyful celebration of love. On her wedding day the bride looked truly radiant. Hogg was jubilant after winning the men's doubles for the 10th time. happy, cheerful, jolly Marina was a confident, happy child. They are both very cheerful in spite of their colds. She was a jolly, kindhearted woman. light-hearted They were light-hearted and prepared to enjoy life. contented, fulfilled She was gazing at him with a soft, contented smile on her face. I feel more fulfilled doing this than I've ever done. dissatisfied, moody, discontented 82% of voters are dissatisfied with the way their country is being governed. David's mother was unstable and moody. The government tried to appease discontented workers. sad, unhappy, depressed, gloomy, glum, dejected, despondent, dispirited I'd grown fond of our little house and felt sad to leave it. Her marriage is in trouble and she is desperately unhappy. She's been very depressed and upset about this whole situation. Do you tend to be over-serious or gloomy? She was very glum and was obviously missing her children. Everyone has days when they feel dejected or down. I feel despondent when my work is rejected. I left eventually at six o'clock feeling utterly dispirited and depressed. miserable, wretched I took a series of badly paid secretarial jobs which made me really miserable. I feel really confused and wretched. happy 1. 'lucky' You say that someone is lucky when something nice happens to them, or when they always seem to have good luck. You're a lucky girl to have so many friends. The lucky winners were given 5000 each. 2. 'happy' Don't use 'lucky' to say that someone has feelings of pleasure and contentment. The word you use is happy. Sarah's such a happy person she's always laughing. Barbara felt tremendously happy when she heard the news. And the wreath is on my brow; Satins and jewels grand Are all at my command, And I am happy now.High above the city, on a tall column, stood the statue of the Happy Prince.Not a word passed between the sisters concerning Bingley; but Elizabeth went to bed in the happy belief that all must speedily be concluded, unless Mr.That had not been a happy wakening, for it brought with it the bitter disappointment of the preceding night.With the sun rose the Fairies, and, with Eva, hastened away to the fountain, whose cool waters were soon filled with little forms, and the air ringing with happy voices, as the Elves floated in the blue waves among the fair white lilies, or sat on the green moss, smoothing their bright locks, and wearing fresh garlands of dewy flowers.I am always happy (out of doors be it understood, for indoors there are servants and furniture) but in quite different ways, and my spring happiness bears no resemblance to my summer or autumn happiness, though it is not more intense, and there were days last winter when I danced for sheer joy out in my frost-bound garden, in spite of my years and children.She dreaded the performance of it, dreaded what its effect on Marianne might be; doubted whether after such an explanation she could ever be happy with another; and for a moment wished Willoughby a widower.Sonya and Natasha, in the light-blue dresses they had worn at the theater, looking pretty and conscious of it, were standing by the clavichord, happy and smiling.And so the story had a happy ending, for Prince James knew that the lovely lady of the garden loved him."No, I'm so glad of a chance of being alone with you, and I must own, though I'm happy with them, I do regret our winter evenings alone."OF THE HAPPY LIFE OLIVER BEGAN TO LEAD WITH HIS KIND FRIENDSShe pushed him toward the big chair by the fire, and sat down on a stool at the opposite side of the hearth, her knees drawn up to her chin, laughing like a happy little girl.
