Many people do not realize that the piano is actually a string instrument, like the guitar or violin. When the keys are pressed, wire strings are struck by a felt-covered hammer to produce the sound.The piano was invented in Italy around the year 1700. Its original name, pianoforte, combined the Italian words for "soft" and "loud." This described the various tones the instrument can produce.According to one source, "In the nineteenth century, a family's piano played the same role that a radio or phonograph played in the twentieth century; when a nineteenth-century family wanted to hear a newly published musical piece or symphony, they could hear it by having a family member play a simplified version on the piano." The so-called "player piano" or pianola was developed in the 1800s; it could play music on its own by reading a perforated paper roll.Scroll down for a downloadable PDF of this tutorial.Cartoons featuring pianos take on many different forms. The piano, and the ability to play, is often used to distinguish a character. Wealthy homes may be depicted as including a grand piano. But in an entirely different vein, many slapstick comedies include the familiar motif of dropping a piano on someone. The piano is usually being lifted into a building because it is too large to fit through the doors.Would you like to draw a cartoon piano? This easy, step-by-step cartoon drawing tutorial is here to show you how. All you will need is a pencil, an eraser, and a sheet of paper.If you liked this tutorial, see also the following drawing guides: Clarinet, Violin, and Guitar.Step-by-Step Instructions for Drawing a PianoPiano drawing - step 1 1. Outline the interior of the open piano. Use straight lines to sketch three sides of a rectangle. Connect the open side using a pair of curved lines, one longer than the other.Piano drawing - step 2 2. Add three-dimensional depth to the interior of the piano. Use straight and curved lines to draw a slightly smaller shape parallel to the first. Then, draw lines parallel to two sides of this shape. Piano drawing - step 3 3. Draw the piano's lid or cover. Use straight and curved lines to draw a shape that mirrors the first. Then, draw straight lines parallel to its two straight sides. Connect them on all three corners using short lines. Then, outline the side of the piano. use straight lines to sketch the rectangular shape. Note the "notch" out of the narrow end of the rectangle.Piano drawing - step 4 4. Draw the front of the piano and the keyboard. Use straight lines to outline the rectangular shapes. Then, draw additional straight lines across the front and to connect the "L" shaped lines at the sides. Draw a narrow rectangle inside a rectangle on the piano's front.Piano drawing - step 5 5. Detail the keys. Draw straight lines across the keyboard. Angle the lines and continue them vertically on the narrow front of the keyboard.Piano drawing - step 6 6. Draw the black keys. Enclose narrow rectangles on top of the existing keys.Piano drawing - step 7 7. Draw the lid prop. Extend a line from the corner of the piano to the lid, and double it back upon itself. Note the wavy portion of the lines.Piano drawing - step 8 8. Draw the piano's legs. From each of the three visible corners, extend a curved line. Double the line back upon itself.Piano drawing - step 9 9. Draw the pedals. Extend two pairs of curved lines below the keyboard. Enclose a rectangle below them. Draw straight lines parallel to two of its sides to offer a three-dimensional appearance.Complete Piano drawing Color your piano. This is our second musical instrument drawing ever, follow along and learn how to draw a grand piano! Drawing this piano did prove to be a little challenging, in fact I kind of think this might be as challenging as the Chinese dragon. Don't let that discourage you though, just keep practicing. Also, you can check out our other musical instrument, how to draw a guitar. We'll be adding more to our musical instrument page soon. Watch How To Draw A Piano We all love beautiful music, and probably for no one is the secret that the piano is one of the most beautifully sounding musical instruments. And exactly this musical instrument we are going to draw today, so let's start the lesson about how to draw a piano. Step 1 Despite the fact that this instrument has existed for many years, its external forms have not changed much. So, using light lines sketch out the outlines of the upper (and most basic) part of the piano. Pay attention to that on one side the contours should be straight and on the other rounded. Step 2 Now, at the top of the piano we sketch out a cover, as shown in our example. But unlike our example, you can draw a closed cover. Now at the lower part of the piano sketch out the legs and pedals. Step 3 Now, using straight and clear lines draw out the front of the piano, as shown in our example. You can use a ruler, but it will be very good if you can manage without it. Step 4 Now we move a little higher and with the help of the same clear and dark lines draw out the body, cover and music rack. Step 5 We move to the bottom of the piano and draw out the legs and pedals. Erase all the unnecessary guidelines from the drawing to make the piano clean and neat. Step 6 Now, perhaps the most difficult step of the lesson on how to draw a piano. Here we will have to draw out the keys. Be sure to consider the correct location of the keys. Step 7 Now, with the help of straight light strokes sketch out the glare on the surface of the piano. Paint the keys black and add shadows, as shown in our example. There were quite a few straight lines here. If you could make the whole drawing without using a ruler - then you are a very cool artist. If you often visit our site, then perhaps you know that we have pages in all social networks. And it is quite possible that you are already subscribed to us. If not, do it so as not to miss a single new drawing lesson. Learn everything about playing piano, from memorizing notes to navigating the keys, with these tutorials. As you advance, use tips to develop sight-reading skills and master the piano song by song.
