Sometimes you may notice unexpected charges on your credit card. In that case, checking the description may help figure out the charges, but the problem is that the description can also be misleading sometimes. In such a case, you would need additional information about the transaction that would help you understand why you have been charged. One such transaction that people have enquired about is GEICO *AUTO 800-841-3000 DC. So, move on to the next section and check out more about GEICO *AUTO 800-841-3000 DC. What Exactly is GEICO *AUTO 800-841-3000 DC? GEICO stands for The Government Employees Insurance Company, and it is an auto insurer in the United States. GEICO is considered one of the largest insurance companies in the country. So, if you see a charge with the description GEICO *AUTO 800-841-3000 DC, you can be sure that this charge is from the GEICO Insurance Company. Now, you need to recall if you purchased a new car, paid for the insurance from the card where the transaction appeared or had insurance due for renewal. The charge may also appear if you have an auto-debit setup on your account for the insurance payment. Once you find out these details, you will be able to find these details, or else you can move on to the next section to find more information. What Next? If you are 100% sure that you haven't paid any charges to GEICO using your card, this could be a scam. In that case, you need to call GEICO customer service and request them more information. If any policy has been issued because of that transaction, they will be able to cancel the policy and initiate a chargeback. However, if the company cannot help you, you would need to contact the bank and seek clarifications about the transaction. 1 CHECKCARD GEICO *AUTO 800-841-3000 DC 2 CHKCARD GEICO *AUTO 800-841-3000 DC 3 CHKCARDGEICO *AUTO 800-841-3000 DC 4 Misc. I had contact with wonderful people who are interested in supplying the right solution for my needs. They did a great job of follow up and continued contact .Date of experience: May 20, 2025I am a professional review worker and much experience about writing a reviews Date of experience: July 13, 2025This organisation or who ever they are, have continuously bombarded me with emails. Despite numerous requests to unsubscribe from them. Everyday they email me. I have gone to the extent of setting up a mail rule to delete the email as soon as it comes into my inbox. If it continues, I will be taking it further. Date of experience: July 11, 2025Capterra review are not publishing this days. Imagine I used my LinkedIn profile to write a review for a software I used but didn't publish. very bad capterra. Try to improve like G2Date of experience: June 09, 2025The entire process with Capterra is outstanding! Why, front end discussion of solution type and needs analysis is spot on. Response time is same day acknowledgment of sourcing criteria, and even some vendors have been known to reach out. I have used Capterra multiple times over the years and what first impressed me is still constant, their entire customer experience is beyond anything else I've experienced. Date of experience: May 20, 2025I was offered a reward gift card for a review by Capterra. I had multiple issues trying to activate the Amazon gift card. I cleared cookies, cache, removing ad block. On the first try there was no option for bot support, and was locked out for too many attempts. I tried to find a contact information for support but there was only a phone line option. Its 2025, I'm a millennial, I don't want to phone you. I tried again the following day with no luck, although the chat bot function was available and it was useless, however I managed to request an email through the chat bot for support. The next day I tried a different browser and it worked - I didn't clear cookies or cache, so not sure why the browser made the difference. A couple of days later I received a support email from Tango with no reference to Capterra or my issue reference number which gives off spam vibes. The email was generic. Another concern I had was that the reference link was for rewardcodes.com which then redirects to rewardlink.com. As stated, the gift card was offered through Capterra but fulfilled by Tango, and there was no explanation for this in the redemption emails. I'm getting whiplash from the constant URL changes, pick a lane.TLDR: Such a faff, don't bother, unless you really want a £10 Amazon gift voucherDate of experience: June 07, 2025Thank you for sharing your experience with the gift card redemption process. We're sorry for the confusion you encountered. We work hard to improve our processes and your input helps us do better. If you need any assistance, please contact us at reviews@capterra.com. Of honest. # 20 dollars for incentive to give a perfect review for any software if you're still a lewleware they have on the site . Now if you rate low or honest it will never be seen again . If you write or a 9 10 rating . You get published . (It's a shame to think of hundreds of wasted dollars from a possible college student low i income family or elderly ! Vafied they say? Uhh huh ! 15 or more reviews I sent after a random email offering me lunch the next day free in exchange for review. They paid that time . 15 or more later with not a clue who I was they push them thru and paid for they in gift cards . I did not get paid for the most recent 7 as the wanted to prove it's me . I responded with the information documents ext and was told they could not they're unable to verify me lol. How you cannot verify somebody from a state ID a business credit card with the business name on it with the name on it in a screenshot of the software that was logged into that they requested to show that I had used the software. In the United pay me for the 6th or seven reviews. To be continued I will update within 24 hours cuz I would love to share the facts and the rest of the details so friend in the meantime or anybody who sees this one clearly I think that's fair to saay .
