How to Redeem Your QR Codes in Dragon Ball Legends Dragon Ball Legends has an unconventional code redemption system. As mentioned earlier, codes are shared through a friend's QR code. You need to complete the Tutorial first to access the QR code redemption menu. To redeem your codes, follow the steps below: Begin by launching Dragon Ball Legends on your device. Tap the 'Menu' button at the bottom right corner of the main menu screen. Select the 'Scan' button from the list of options. This will open your device's camera. Scan a friend's in-game QR code with your camera. If the QR code works, the rewards will be instantly sent to your inventory. Once you follow through with these instructions, the rewards will be sent to your in-game account. You may have to wait a bit before it arrives, but for the most part, the rewards are sent instantaneously. The best way to get more Dragon Ball Legends codes is by befriending more people in the game. Once you do so, you will be able to scan more QR codes, which ultimately contributes to you being able to summon Shenron. If you have trouble finding friends in Dragon Ball Legends, you can join community pages such as the one on Reddit to get more friend codes. On these pages, players will often share their QR codes that you can quickly use in the game. We have gathered all the Dragon Ball Legends Codes of the year 2025 in a single list for you. Indeed, Bandai Namco's title benefits from an atypical QR Codes system that we will explain a little further in the article. However, you need to find these free rewards by browsing the web extensively, and this can be a huge waste of time. First of all, it is necessary to remind that the codes are not used to cheat. The game team usually shares a coupon to thank its community. There is no lack of opportunities for this. There are celebrations with Dragon Ball Legends QR Codes related to the current season, the anniversary of the game, a number of downloads reached, etc. Where to find the codes Dragon Ball Legends ? Finding a gift code Dragon Ball Legends is not an easy task. It can be found on social networks such as Twitter, Facebook and Instagram. Because of this, Namco encourages players to keep up to date with the latest news about their game in case valuable DBL codes are released. However, a promo code sometimes ends up being distributed through influencers. In this case, the search area extends to Youtube and Twitch, which can make the investigation long and tedious. All the more so as the codes generally have a limited duration in time. This requires a certain reactivity in order to benefit from them in time. How do I activate the gift QR codes? The code system in Dragon Ball Legends is a bit peculiar. Indeed, unlike Dragon Ball Idle where it is possible to enter codes in-game, it is not possible in Dragon Ball Legends. This means that if necessary the game team will send rewards directly to your mailbox. Although this practice is common to many mobile games, Dragon Ball Legends stands out from its competitors by offering an alternative way to get in-game bonuses. During an anniversary event, players had to generate, share and use QR codes to summon the mythical dragon Shenron. By doing so, you would receive many in-game bonuses. The "Scan" option is located in the main menu of the game. You can't miss it! You can choose to scan the QR code from an image or by using the camera of your mobile phone. How to create a QR Code compatible with the Dragon Ball Legends scanner? When a Dragon Ball Legends gift code or friend code is given, it's usually in the form of numbers and letters and not a QR Code. As is the case in this article or on the Reddit Megathread. In order to be able to scan and activate them, you'll need to transform your codes into QR versions. Dragon Ball Legend QR Code generator via Github The first method is to use a tool created by a member of the DBL community available on Github and simply enter the code to generate the QR. Convert a code for a classic QR Code generator The second method is if you prefer to use a classic QR code generator such as Bitly's QR Code Generator. You will need to add "7," in front of the code so that the QR Code generated is compatible with DB Legends. For example, if your code is umd74s5q8, this would give: 7,umd74s5q8 which will provide you with a good QR to scan. Note that in some cases, the 7 can change with something else like 4. Be careful, if it's a friend code, keep the QR Code to one side because to get the DBL 6th anniversary rewards, your friend request will first have to be accepted and then scanned again when you become friends. Published: Jul 1, 2024 01:02 pm To complete the Dragon Ball Hunt and DB Legends' sixth Anniversary, you need QR codes from friends. While having friends in your list makes this easier, asking them for their codes can be annoying and slow. Luckily, there's a way to get a friend's QR code without bothering them. The tricky part is you only get an item from the Dragon Ball Hunt if the QR code is from someone already on your friends list. Sharing random QR codes here wouldn't help because you need to have those people added as friends. Instead, I'll show you how to get these QR codes from friends you already have. Here's a full guide on how to complete the Dragon Ball Hunt in DB Legends' Sixth Anniversary and the rewards you can get for summoning Shenron. You can ask friends for their codes, or you can skip the waiting. Screenshot and remix by Dot Esports The best way to get codes for the Dragon Ball Hunt without having to wait for your friends to generate and send them to you is the following: Go to your friends list Tap the badge icon to the right of one of your friend's cards Copy their friend code. Go to a Dragon Ball Legends QR Code generator site and paste the friend code. While this website says the generator is for the 2023 game Anniversary, I can confirm it's updated and working for the 2024 edition as well. The site will generate a working QR code for the event. Go to the Dragon Ball Hunt section in DB Legends and tap Scan Code. If you've saved the QR Code on your phone, tap Picture and select the file. If you'll instead read the code with your camera, simply point the camera to the code to read it. Claim your reward. You can repeat this process with three different friends every day. If you scan the QR Code in Dragon Ball Hunt and instead get a prompt to add a player as a friend, you're using a code from someone who's not actually on your friends list. You can send them a friend request through that window, but you'll have to wait for them to accept it to scan the same code again to claim the item. Some people claim if you try to use the same QR codes the next day, they won't work. If this happens, go back to the same website and generate the codes again for the same friends. They will create different QR codes, and you should be able to use them for the event. Remember that using the QR codes will only get you four of the seven Dragon Balls needed to summon Shenron. The other three balls (two, four, and seven) are locked behind the "Thanks for 6 Years! Anniversary Special Mission Rewards" that you must unlock by completing such missions. Once you collect all seven Dragon Balls, you can choose one of the rewards listed below. All of them also come with special sleeves and the "Come Forth, Shenron! 6th Anniversary!" title.
