Despite the fallen percentages listed, I found it far away, much easier to make themselves in the hinterland. After doing a bit of research I discovered that wolves do not share a spawn area with other animals, unlike the different pieces within the eastern plaguranti. They are also easier to kill. Good luck and Happy Hunting! Azienda Farm I Lupi around "Aerie Peak" in "The Enterlands" (15.50) many wolves, good fall speed. Haused to make the food learned from this recipe: u can now buy the recipe tender wolf steak from the gadgestan butcher (inside the inn) u you need a level 225 Cooking (and level 40 to eat it) So it's a good time to do it is when you get the search for 225-300 Cooking where it is the best place to make the flesh? On Wow-Europe Forum it is found that Felwood is the best place, but I'm not sure I agree. The best place I found was in Tanaris.Â € The IENAS drops a good settlement. It is the depth of BlackRock, the hounds fall a lot of a good place to get these is killing the hyenas / rapid blisterpaws in abyssal sands, Tanaris near Gadgetzan. Cables for lucky PPL for having them is 44, 51 The long-term runner wolf in Feralas seems to drop it a lot The Silverman wolf in the hinterland drops $% ^ & Load also for alliance: Â, departure at the Northern FP in Felood ... Make a way to the southern end by killing all the wolves you pass ... fly to return to the north and are all respected. I got about 30 per race. I followed the eastern side most of the road, there are some long mountains east of Ironstee Woods, the rest of the road down follow the road the best place of everyone is in Tanaris, as some previous people said . Go to the center of Tanaris, towards the area called the abyssal sands. The Hyenas blisterpaws, blisterpaws hungry and blisterpaws rabid have all great drop rates. Go near the great skeletal / bone things. There are always large groups of hyenas there! I hope this helps! I have just been in the hinterland and must have changed the drop rates. I was 10 minutes and I already 7 years. Over 50% of falling speed right on casual wolves. Pretty clean because I had calculated that I should kill them 200 of them on the above rates the interiors are incorrect, the red wolf meat is not yet a flesh Not yet still? Of course, but I don't know where, that's why I'm looking here too. No information yet. ¿ does anyone have a great farm for this good business? The recipe is "Wolf Wolf steak" the best source for these: go to BRD, kill the dogs (there are some to the left, along the long corridor with 1 packages of 5, e Truk WildBeard, Wildhammer Keeter, the hinterland sells it for 1G 20S (with reputation modifiers) Dirge Quikcleave, the inn, Gadgetzan, Tanaris also sells this for 1G 20s.alsyande - 46 Hunter: The Emerald Furicencanion Circleedited, Sat Mar 26 14:18:14 2005 The hinterland is the best forThis recipe was the key to me to chivare the last 50-60 points up to 300 cook. Farm wolves in the hinterland for a large fall rate on the tender wolf meat and brings a lot of soothing spices with you. The recipe remained yellow until about 295 cooking, so it really helped. These are the best way to get to 300 cooking without fishing! A better fall speed (about 50%) is from Frenzied PlagueHound found in Eastern PlagueLands. While its real pest hounds have a slightly higer drop rate is even much faster to get them aged by wolf in the hinterlands.plaguehounds are a deformed shared with bats and grubs so you have to make a lot of extra kills while wolves inland are not.Spawns shared and you can kill 5-10 of them in time spent finding 2 plegehounds if you are able to cook 70 The following packages have a good fall rate, the pairs of humanoids are easy enough to kill even at 70. Clear the front room, maybe clear the Houndmaster in there and kill those 10-12 dogs. Run, reset. I tried to go the hinterland route, and I found that looking for wolves was far, much more irritating, then it had to be. Or they were hidden (necessary to spend time running in circles trying to find them) or scattered among the owlbirds. There was no density to them, so it was not possible to bring 6 or 7 at a time and to lay them down. Despite the lower drop rate, I found the best density of the Tanari crowd. The hyenas (mixed with the rocs for the mission of 225) around the large bone piles were extremely dense, allowing me to bring in many of them simultaneously (my disk was 11, and two rocs) and burn them all in a few seconds, spoil and ride up to the next bony pile (of which there are 5). They also drop mysterious meat and red wolf meat, giving you more things to cook and gut to pay for your Ah / Spices. I found another place to get the recipe, for the alliance only though, its bartender in Wildhammer continues inland. Its quick corner behind the inkeepersells it for 1G 20S this does not become green until 285 kitchens. 300 is still green. Confirmed, you can buy the recipe from Truk WildBeard in the Wildhammer Keep in Enterlands (Alliance). 1G 20S. Fizzgrumble does not sell it, but Dige Quikcleave does. Location, different NPC.editata, June 1, 2007 5:57 PM RETSEMAG Despite the drop percentages listed, I found it far, much easier to farm for these in the hinterland . After doing a little research I discovered that wolves do not share a spawn area with other animals, unlike the different plegules within the eastern Plaguranti. They're even easier to kill. Good luck and hunting happy! Farm hops around"Aerie Peak" in "Inland" (15.50) many wolves, good speed of fall. Haused to make the food learned from this recipe: Great Rate at 36.49 inland. Even tons of mobs. Continuous breeding. When I'm done with the Spawn, they have already started respawn. I grew them in the hinterland of Aerie Peak. Kill the Eat Silvermane is a decent droprate and the rosés are found taking Mroe's red wolf meat compared to the tender wolf meat, although another good place in Felood is at 41.33 next to a tree. Felood: just go from one point: 51, 31 and spot 41, 33edit: even 44, 69 full of wolves! Confirmed EPL is a waste of time. The mobs are too scattered and hard to do. The hinterland just east of Aerie Peak is the place to grow these. Cata has changed so much, I'm running everywhere looking for meat for the kitchen level Just confirmed the wolves of hinterlands have decreased by about 1 in 20 tender wolf meat, 16 in 20 skinny wolf flanks and 3 in 20 red wolf meat. Still on the hunt for soft wolf meat. After Cata I found a lot of tender wolf meat on the giant ember worgs in steppe burning. I found the best place is in the detention block of Brd Brd, there are absolutely loads of small red devil dogs running and in a running lap I collected almost 30 tender wolf meat. There's a chief under the law room who has about 12 dogs in there, all the not elite, I got 6 meats from that room alone. Holding lock means running short to get out of the dungeon to reset it as well. Fine.
